The album, which was produced by John Feldmann of Goldfinger (The Used, Story of the Year, Plain White T's, Good Charlotte), contains 12 hard-hitting, rock tracks, including the debut single, "Reap," which Artist Direct praised, saying the track "roars with a hyper-charged, hypnotic chorus and an industrial-fueled grind...The Red Jumpsuit Apparatus strike the perfect balance between post-hardcore grit and electronic sheen. "Reap" is only a taste of the brilliance on Am I the Enemy. It's bound to be one of the most important and infectious rock releases of 2011."
