August 1, 2012. Cher is pretty excited about the new music she's been working on.

The icon has been on a tweeting frenzy, giving a few details about her upcoming album, her first in 11 years, which she revealed would be out during the holiday season.

She also tweeted that she's been working with Pink, who wrote two songs for the new album that Cher's record label loved. "Pink is definitely my girl," she wrote. "She's talent! Luv it." Read the full story on CBS Local.
