November 13, 2011. Orlando Calling, mega music festival sponsored by Festival Republic and the City of Orlando, debuted in America for the first year and day two charged up the Citrus Bowl with five stages and over 30 bands! The power line up of talent hailed Bob Seger, Kid Rock, Blake Shelton, Doobie Brothers, Chris Isaak, Buddy Guy, Robert Randolph, Warren Haynes Band, Michelle Branch just to name a few!

Highlights from day two of the festival included the Doobie Brothers kicking off their set with "Jesus Is Just Alright" and featuring songs from their new album WORLD GONE CRAZY. Original Doobies members Tom Johnston and Pat Simmons kept the groove in "China Grove" alive and well for fans.

Blake Shelton fired up the Citrus Bowl Main Stage with signature hit "Some Beach" proclaiming to the audience "I like Florida for the beaches!" The pop country singer / guitarist showcased his versatility and wowed the audience with R&B classic covers "Play That Funky Music," "My Prerogative" and J. Geils Band rock classic "Angel in a Centerfold." "Kiss My Country Ass" was a fan favorite of the afternoon.
