May 30, 2011. On the heels of his 21st birthday and new music release "Party All Night (Sleep All Day)," reggae-pop star Sean Kingston is hospitalized after a boating crash into a bridge in Miami, Florida. Authorities say Mr. Kingston was badly injured in the accident and his condition is unclear.

According to Associated Press, Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission spokesman Jorge Pino says Kingston and a female passenger were injured when the watercraft hit the Palm Island Bridge around 6 p.m. Sunday.

Pino says both were hospitalized early Monday at Ryder Trauma Center, but he didn't know their conditions. The Miami Herald reports that a passing boater saw the accident and took the two on board his vessel. Pino says authorities are investigating the crash, and "nothing at this point would indicate that alcohol played a role."

A representative for his label Epic Records confirmed early Monday that Kingston was in a crash and "was now stabilized." No further information was provided. Kingston rose to fame with his 2007 hit "Beautiful Girls" and was also featured on songs by artists including Justin Bieber. His self-titled debut album sold over 1 million copies worldwide.

A number of hip-hop musicians were in Miami Beach over the weekend for Urban Beach Week.
